

END OF YEAR LETTER WRITING REFLECTION ACTIVITIES

- ✦ Includes sentence frames for your English Language Learners
- ✦ Includes 3 choices for your students

Teachers can mail these to students at the end of the summer or the following year if they bring in a self-addressed stamp and envelope.

PICK A CHOICE

Choice 1: How You Developed

Write about how you have developed over the course of this school year. It can be something academically or something personal. How did you begin the school year? How did you finish out the year? What aspects changed for you, and what caused this change? Give specific examples and details. Use correct conventions of standard English capitalization, punctuation, and spelling when writing.

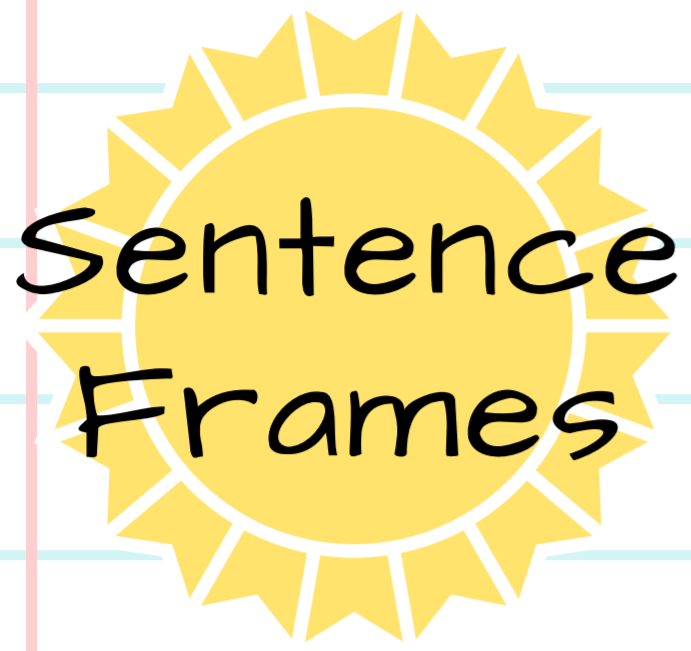

Choice 2: Recommendations for Your Past Self

Think about you at the beginning of the year. What would you recommend to yourself? Would you recommend to turn in your work more, participate more in class, or talk to another student you never had the chance to? It can be something academically or something personal. Use correct conventions of standard English capitalization, punctuation, and spelling when writing.

Choice 3: Recommendations for Your Future Self

What recommendations would give yourself based on what you learned this year? What did you do this year that was successful, and how can you apply that to your next year? Reflect on what worked and what didn't for you. Use correct conventions of standard English capitalization, punctuation, and spelling when writing.
